BABY LOOKING FOR HOME, Superintendent of Orphans and Rescue Home Association in the City.

Rev. E. Peterson, superintendent of the Orphans and Rescue Home Association of Green Bay, was in the city this week on his annual visit.

This Association takes temporary care of dependent and neglected children, secures employment for mother with child without separation and provides a home for unfortunate, but worthy mothers in time of need. Such mothers are often unable to keep the child in their charge and prefer to place it for adoption in some good private family. Mr. Peterson said he would be glad to correspond with any good family that would like to adopt a child. Address the office, 318 Cora Street, Station A, Green Bay, Wisconsin.

AUCTION SALE.

—The Bas O'Day farm of 202 acres was sold last week to Mr. Windsor of Richland County thru the W. C. Lytle agency of Nekeos.

Mrs. Herman Wachs left on Monday for Rochester, Minn., where she will submit to a surgical operation in Mayo Bros. hospital. She was accompanied by her daughters, Mrs. Arthur Weizel and Mrs. Miles Foster.

Stevens Point Journal.—Brakeman Harry Hagerstrom is suffering from badly scalded legs, which he received while riding in the engine of a Soo line freight train. The fireman was using a hose to wet down the coal on the tender when the nozzle blew off, allowing boiling water to cover the lower limbs of the brakeman. Although his injuries are not serious he will be laid up for some time.

Rev. F. A. Pease, who has had charge of the Methodist church in this city during the past two years, has been transferred to Waukegan where he will have charge of the church there. During the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Pease in this city they have made many friends who will be sorry to know that they are going to leave, but who can only wish them success in their new location. H. C. Logan will have charge of the Methodist church here during the ensuing year.

CONVENTION A GREAT SUCCESS

The Congregational church convention held in this city during the past week is reported to have been one of the most successful the association has ever held. There were 164 delegates in attendance that registered and they seemed to enjoy their visit here to the utmost.

The delegates were entertained by the people of the city and no trouble was encountered in securing accommodations for all.

The convention was opened on Friday evening by an address by Rev. Silas Evans, president of Ripon College, and those who heard him said that he gave a most pleasing talk.

The church was filled with a large audience consisting of the delegates and members of the church, and besides the address by Rev. Evans there was special music for the occasion under the direction of Mrs. Guy Nash.

Programs had been arranged for Saturday, Sunday and Monday, which were carried out successfully.

One of the most happy events of the affair was the banquet Saturday noon which was enjoyed by a large number. Toasts were given and it was a most pleasant event from start to finish. This part of the entertainment was under the direction of Mrs. W. R. Gardner and the details were carried out in a most successful manner.

The next convention of the Association will be held at Sparta. The officers elected for the ensuing year were:

A. E. Leonard, Moderator.
H. A. Minor, Honorary Moderator.
L. H. Keller, Superintendent.

Man Was a Swindler.
One day some weeks ago, a man of prosperous appearance entered one of the local saloons and offered to sell the proprietor 500 cigars at a low price, also deal to include a gold watch and a cigar lighter. As the saloon keeper happened to need a cigar lighter, he went against the proposition. He was handed over the watch and cigars and the cigar lighter was to be shipped to him later, he paying the promised price.

As the cigar lighter has failed to show up as yet, the saloon man thinks that he has been swindled. It is entirely probable that the man who buy and smoke the 500 cigars will also be swindled.

The man represented himself to be an agent of the United States Cigar Co. of 308 12th street, Milwaukee, Wis. As the saloon man has written several letters to the name and address mentioned above, but has failed to get a rise, he is of the opinion that no such company exists.

We have several local cigar men who manufacture reliable goods, and while they do not give away gold watches and cigar lighters with each 500 cigars, it is entirely probable that the dealer will get better satisfaction, and his customers as well, if their goods are purchased in preference to the stock of itinerant salesmen who have such glittering offers to make.

Love-Jones.
Miss Fern Love of this city and Mr. Seth Jones of Chicago, were married this morning at 10 o'clock at the Catholic parsonage, Rev. William Reding performing the ceremony.

After the marriage the guests went to the home of the bride's parents where a wedding breakfast was served. The young people leave this noon on a wedding tour after which they will make their home in Chicago, where the groom holds a position of trust in the sales department of the Consolidated Water Power and Paper Company.

Both of the contracting parties in this marriage are well and favorably known in this city, being among our best young people. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Love and is a most estimable young lady. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Jones and is a young man of sterling worth and well known integrity. They have many friends in this city and the Tribune unites with these in extending the heartiest of congratulations and wishing them a long life of happiness.

Albert Hofer of Babcock was arrested on Tuesday of last week by Game Warden Cole for having 13 chickens in his possession, eleven more than the law allows. He was fined $25.00 for his misdemeanor, which with the costs, amounted to $28.10.

Kenneth Smith received word today of the death of his grandmother, Mrs. C. Teall, at Beloit, and he leaves tomorrow to attend the funeral. Kenneth has resigned his position in the Johnson & Hill store, and will go from Beloit to Oskaloosa, Iowa, where he has accepted a position in a candy factory.

Morris Smith, who had recently returned from Britt, Iowa, received word of the death of his little son soon after returning here. He had left the boy in apparent good health and he knew nothing of the little fellow's sickness until he got the news of his death.

—Bargains in sewing machines, from $2 to $10, at the Singer Sewing machine Agency. Mrs. N. Pepin.

A large crowd assembled at Daly's Theatre on Tuesday evening to hear Dr. Anna Shaw speak on the subject of Woman Suffrage. Dr. Shaw is president of the National Woman Suffrage Association and is a good talker and the audience was well pleased with what they heard.

Mrs. Albert Meyer sold her farm in the town of Grand Rapids last week to John Lewis of Chicago. The deal was made thru the agency of Mrs. Lytle, and the consideration was $3300. Mrs. Meyer and son Fred departed today for Bemidji, Minn., where they will make their future home.

FLOWER SHOW TO OPEN TOMORROW

The annual flower and vegetable show to be held at the amusement hall will open tomorrow and the indications are that the exhibits this year will be even better than before.

The show will continue on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week and all entries should be made on Thursday morning, as the book for entries will be closed at 1 o'clock.

As the season has been a pretty good one for the raising of flowers, the display should be better than ever before, notwithstanding the fact that it was exceptionally good heretofore.

Everybody who has something worth displaying in this line should make it a point to fix it up in nice shape and be on hand, and every man, woman and child should visit the amusement hall some time during the three days of the show to see the exhibition, as it is worth many times the small admission fee charged to see what is offered.

Automobiling Down East.
Mr. and Mrs. O. Edmund LaVigne, well known Grand Rapids people, are making the most of a pleasant autumn season by an automobile trip along the Atlantic coast with a party of eastern friends. They are following the routes principally that skirt the ocean beach, in which section the roads are maintained in very fine condition and long distances are covered in a day. Including stops at the principal eastern watering places, their itinerary embraces the points of interest on Long Island sound and in and about New York City.

Mr. LaVigne has been in the Government civil service for over twelve years, but has made yearly visits back home here and he holds a loyal interest in the city of his birth as well as retaining his legal residence in Grand Rapids. Mr. LaVigne has this year accepted new duties in the Department of Commerce and Labor by transfer to the position of Special Agent, Bureau of Corporations.

Stevens Point Wins.
The largest crowd of the season assembled at the ball park on Sunday afternoon to see the game between Stevens Point and Wausau. It was a trifle on a side, as Stevens Point carried off the honors by a score of 6 to 0. Big Cy Young having the pitcher's honors from Wausau on the run from start to finish.

The Wausau boys brought over the band with them and also a large crowd of rooters while there was a large delegation from Stevens Point to yell for their boys. Stevens Point had a little bit of it all the way thru, the Wausau outfield seeming to be a trifle weak.

Play Was Strong One.
"The Shepherd of the Hills," presented Wednesday evening at Daly's Theatre, was favored with a large audience. The play was well staged and every part was true to life and true to the author of the popular novel, upon which the play is based. Sammy Lane was perhaps the most interesting character in the play and was not only pretty but available. All the acts were exceptionally strong, the finales in the second and third acts being particularly striking. There was enough of the humorous in the play to intercept the more serious portions of the theme and as a whole, no better play has ever been shown at a local theatre.

"The Hills" will be long remembered by those who witnessed its excellent presentation by Gaskill & McVitty.

Laeder-Goldberg.
Mrs. Mattie Laeder and Mr. William Goldberg were married on Thursday last at the east side Lutheran church, Rev. R. Pantz performing the ceremony. They were accompanied by Misses Louise Laeder, Ella Peters and Lizzie Dittmer and Messrs. Sherman, Arnold, Otto Laeder and William Rickman. After the ceremony the bride and groom were taken to the home of the bride's parents where they partook of a wedding dinner, and it was a most happy event for all concerned.

Both of the contracting parties are well and favorably known in this city and have a host of friends to wish them happiness thru life. The Tribune unites with these in extending congratulations.

How Would You Feel

if you were sure that a charity concert and your first number was, "Thou Art So Near And Yet So Far," and some melody imp sang out, "Make it as far as you can, and it's over!" I ask you in all the city and I have you reply, "I like your gull!"

The title "Thou Art So Near And Yet So Far" was splendidly, "I like your gull!" is clean and the song and monks' fairs, brick pile, too, must be their cleverest nothing like "Every seat in the tent your building will attend tonight."

Will exhibit at Grand Rapids, afternoon and night, Saturday, Sept. 21.

Results of the Penmanship Contest.

Prof. J. A. Book of Manitowish, has awarded prizes as follows in the penmanship contest for rural and graded schools in Wood County:

Pupils under 12 years of age, first prize, a gold medal, offered by County superintendent, Geo. A. Varnoy, to Alice Hiest of Babcock, Wis. Second prize, a beautiful Parker fountain pen, offered by Mrs. W. A. Sexton of Marshfield, R. 3. Third prize, The Life and Works of Henry W. Longfellow, offered by Prof. M. H. Jackson to Ida Emmulatt, Marshfield, R. 1.

Pupils between 12 and 16 years: First prize, same as above, given by Prof. J. A. Book, Manitowish, won by Eleanor Gray, Milladore. Second prize, beautiful fountain pen, offered by Frank L. Zwick, jeweler at Marshfield, won by Alvina Emmulatt, Marshfield, R. 3. Third prize, same as above, won by Minnie Thies, Sherry.

School Board Conventions.
There will be two school board conventions held in Wood County this year. The first will be held at Marshfield on Saturday, Sept. 28th, 1912, and the second will be held at Grand Rapids on date to be announced later. An interesting program will be presented at both conventions and it is hoped that each school board member in Wood County will attend one of these meetings. These conventions have always been well attended in the past and let each individual school board member resolve to do his part to make this year's attendance a record breaker.

Geo. A. Varnoy, Co. Supt.,
Dated at Vesper, Wis., Sept. 16th, 1912.

A Great Record.
Neillsville Times.—Wheeler Foran, who carries the mail on route 3 out of this city, is the owner of a horse whose record as a traveler is nothing short of marvelous and one which very few horses have duplicated. Wheeler has been carrying the mail since Feb. 2, 1903, and allowing for vacations and substitutions, has used this one horse alone during all this time. Figuring that the horse has traveled the road for nine years and the route at 24 miles in length, the animal has stepped off 98,200 miles in his work on the mail route. He is 16 years old now and seems to still have quite a few miles left in him, but it is probable that he will not be asked to travel the daily 24 mile trip many more times.

Waldo-Manske.
August Walden of Edgerton and Miss Tillie Manske were married on Wednesday, Sept. 11th, at 2:30 o'clock at the German Lutheran church, east side by Rev. Pantz. They were attended by George Haeck and Anna Manske, sister of the bride. After the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents, to a number of intimate friends and relatives. They departed on Monday for Edgerton where they will go to housekeeping at once. Mr. Waldo holding a responsible position with a lumber company in that city. The Tribune unites with numerous friends in extending congratulations.

The Social Democratic Campaign Opens.
The Socialists are beginning to get busy.

R. O. McCaleb, candidate for the assembly in LaCrosse County, is doing Wood County this week and will speak in Grand Rapids, this Wednesday night. His subject will be The Business of the People and the Place of meeting over Johnson & Hill Co.'s old dry goods store.

Carl D. Thompson, candidate for governor, will also speak in the same place Friday evening. Subject, The Fulfillment of Democracy.

All are cordially invited to be present. Admission free.

O'Day Farm Sold.
Louis Gross last week sold the Bas O'Day farm in the town of Grand Rapids consisting of 202 acres to Mr. Wink of the southern part of the state. Consideration $10,000 including crops.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Day have not decided on what they will do but will probably move to town to live.

Vote in Clark County.
The official canvass in Clark County shows that B. K. Goggins received 278 votes for state senator on the democratic ticket.

On the Republican ticket R. W. Monk received 1903, and Geo. F. Hambrecht 180.

The Fuel Supply Needs Attention Only Three Times Each Day

The makers of Cole's Hot Blast Heater guarantee this stove to hold fire with soft coal 36 hours without attention. Your old stove and imitation stoves leak air and waste fuel because they are not air-tight, because they have putty joints.

Cole's Original Hot Blast Heater

—by means of the patented Hot Blast Draft and other patented features which make it tight, doing away with the use of stove putty—requires less attention than any other heater made.

All fuel—Soft Coal, Hard Coal, Lignite, Wood or Corn Cobs—contains a large amount of gas. Fully one-half of the heating power (carbon) in soft coal is gas. This is the part of the fuel this wonderful heater saves, by burning it with the Top Hot Blast Draft. This makes Cole's Hot Blast Heater the most satisfactory, the most economical, the most convenient heater you can buy. Imitations and other styles of stoves allow this gas-half of the coal to pass up the chimney with the smoke, unburned.

Thousands of these stoves are in use and the sale continues to increase year after year.

This heater will give you more comfort than you ever thought possible by using any kind of a stove which uses soft coal for fuel.

Right now is the time to decide and select the size you should have. Come in and see complete line of styles and sizes.

Price $12.00 and upwards—According to Size and Finish.

The fireman was using a hose to wet down the coal in the tender when the nozzle blew off, allowing boiling water to cover the lower limbs of the brakeman. Although his injuries are not serious he will be laid up for some time.

Rev. F. A. Pease, who has had charge of the Methodist church in this city during the past two years, has been transferred to Waukegan where he will have charge of the church there. During the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Pease in this city they have made many friends who will be sorry to know that they are going to leave, but who can only wish them success in their new location. H. O. Logan will have charge of the Methodist church here during the ensuing year.

CONVENTION A GREAT SUCCESS

The Congregational church convention held in this city during the past week is reported to have been one of the most successful the association has ever held. There were 164 delegates in attendance that registered and they seemed to enjoy their visit here to the utmost.

The delegates were entertained by the people of the city and no trouble was encountered in securing accommodations for all.

The convention was opened on Friday evening by an address by Rev. Elias Evans, president of Ripon College, and those who heard him said that he gave a most pleasing talk.

The church was filled with a large audience consisting of the delegates and members of the church, and besides the address by Rev. Evans there was special music for the occasion under the direction of Mrs. Gay Nash.

Programs had been arranged for Saturday, Sunday and Monday, which were carried out successfully.

One of the most happy events of the affair was the banquet Saturday noon which was enjoyed by a large number. Toasts were given and it was a most pleasant event from start to finish. This part of the entertainment was under the direction of Mrs. W. R. Gardner and the details were carried out in a most successful manner.

The next convention of the Association will be held at Sparta. The officers elected for the ensuing year were:

A. E. Leonard, Moderator.

H. A. Minor, Honorary Moderator.

L. H. Keller, Superintendent.

Man Was a Swindler.

One day some weeks ago, a man of prosperous appearance entered one of the local saloons and offered to sell the proprietor 500 cigars at a low price, the deal to include a gold watch and a cigar lighter. As the saloon keeper happened to need a cigar lighter, he went against the proposition. He was handed over the watch and cigars and the cigar lighter was to be shipped to him later, he paying the purchase price.

As the cigar lighter has failed to show up as yet, the saloon man thinks that he has been swindled. It is entirely probable that the man who buy and smoke the 500 cigars will also be swindled.

The man represented himself to be an agent of the United States Cigar Co., of 308 12th street, Milwaukee, Wis. As the saloon man has written several letters to the name and address mentioned above but has failed to get a reply he is of the opinion that no such company exists.

We have several local cigar men who manufacture reliable goods, and while they do not give away gold watches and cigar lighters with each 500 cigars, it is entirely probable that the dealer will get better satisfaction, and his customers as well, if their goods are purchased in preference to the stock of itinerant salesmen who have such glittering offers to make.

Miss Fern Love of this city and Mr. Seth Jones of Chicago, were married this morning at 10 o'clock at the Catholic parsonage, Rev. William Reding performing the ceremony. After the marriage the guests went to the home of the bride's parents where a wedding breakfast was served. The young people leave this noon on a wedding tour after which they will make their home in Chicago, where the groom holds a position of trust in the sales department of the Consolidated Water Power and Paper Company.

Both of the contracting parties in this marriage are well and favorably known in this city, being among the best young people. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Love and was a school teacher by profession and is a most estimable young lady. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Jones and is a young man of sterling worth and well known in integrity. They have many friends in this city and the Tribune unites with these in extending the heartiest congratulations and wishing them a long life of happiness.

Albert Hofer of Babcock was arrested on Tuesday of last week by Game Warden Cole for having 16 chickens in his possession, eleven more than the law allows. He was fined $5.00 for his misdemeanor, which, with the costs, amounted to $8.10.

Kenneth Smith received word today of the death of his grandmother, Mrs. O. Teall, at Beloit, and he leaves tomorrow to attend the funeral. Kenneth has resigned his position in the Johnson & Hill store, and will go from Beloit to Oakalosa, Iowa, where he has accepted a position in a candy factory.

Morris Smith, who had recently returned from Britt, Iowa, received word of the death of his little son soon after returning here. He had left the boy in apparent good health and he knew nothing of the little fellow's sickness until he got the news of his death.

—Bargains in sewing machines, from $2 to $10, at the Singer Sewing machine Agency. Mrs. N. Popin.

A large crowd assembled at Daly's Theatre on Tuesday evening to hear Dr. Anna Shaw speak on the subject of Woman Suffrage. Dr. Shaw is president of the National Woman Suffrage Association and is a good talker and the audience was well pleased with what they heard.

Mrs. Albert Meyer sold her farm in the town of Grand Rapids last week to John Lewis of Chicago. The deal was made thru the agency of Mrs. Lytle, and the consideration was $3300. Mrs. Meyer and son Fred departed today for Bemidji, Minn., where they will make their future home.

FLOWER SHOW TO OPEN TOMORROW

The annual flower and vegetable show to be held at the annual hall will open tomorrow and the indications are that the exhibit this year will be even better than before.

The show will continue on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week and all entries should be made on Thursday morning, as the book for entries will be closed at 1 o'clock.

As the season has been a pretty good one for the raising of flowers, the display should be better than ever before, notwithstanding the fact that it was exceptionally good heretofore.

Everybody who has something worth displaying in this line should make it a point to fix it up in nice shape and be on hand, and every man, woman and child should visit the amusement hall some time during the three days of the show to see the exhibition, as it is worth many times the small admission fee charged to see what is offered.

See Automobiling Down East. Mr. and Mrs. C. Edmond LaVigne, well known Grand Rapids people, are making the most of a pleasant autumn season by an automobile trip along the Atlantic coast with a party of eastern friends. They are following the route principally that skirt the ocean beach, in which section the roads are maintained in very fine condition and long distances are covered in a day. Including stops at the principal eastern watering places, their itinerary embraces the points of interest on Long Island Sound and in and about New York City.

Mr. LaVigne has been in the Government civil service for over twelve years, but has made yearly visits back home here and he holds a loyal interest in the city of his birth as well as in retaining his legal residence in Grand Rapids. Mr. LaVigne has this year accepted new duties in the Department of Commerce and Labor by transfer to the position of Special Agent, Bureau of Corporations.

Stevens Point Wins. The largest crowd of the season assembled at the ball park on Sunday afternoon to see the game between Stevens Point and Waupaca. It was a terrific one sided, as Stevens Point carried off the honors by a score of 5 to 0, big Cy Young having the potato raisers from Waupaca on the run from start to finish.

The Waupaca boys brought out the band with them and also a large crowd of rooters while there was a large delegation from Stevens Point to yell for their boys. Stevens Point had a little the best of it all the way thru, the Waupaca outfield seeming to be a trifle weak.

Each of these teams has won one game and there is talk of their playing another in the near future to settle the championship.

Play Was Strong One. "The Shepherd of the Hills," presented Wednesday evening at the Grand Theatre, was favored with a large audience. The play was well staged and every part was true to life and true to the author of the popular novel upon which the play is based.

Lance was perhaps the most interesting character in the play and was not only pretty but amiable. All the acts were exceptionally strong, the finales in the second and third acts being particularly striking.

There was enough of the humorous in the play to intercept the more serious portions of the theme and as a whole, no better play has ever been shown at a local theatre. "The Shepherd of the Hills" will be long remembered by those who witnessed its excellent presentation by Gaskill & McVittie.

Laeder-Goldberg. Mas Hattie Laeder and Mr. William Goldberg were married on Thursday last at the east side Lutheran church, Rev. R. Pantz performing the ceremony. They were accompanied by Misses Louise Laeder, Ella Peters and Lizzie Dittmer and Messrs. Stelman, Arndt, Otto Laeder and William Rickman. After the ceremony the bridal party and invited guests went to the home of the bride's parents where they partook of a wedding dinner, and it was a most happy event for all concerned.

Both of the contracting parties are well and favorably known in this city and have a host of friends to wish them happiness thru life. The Tribune unites with these in extending congratulations.

Results of the Penmanship Contest. Prof. J. A. Hook of Manitowish, has awarded prizes as follows in the penmanship contest for rural and graded schools in Wood County:

Pupils under 12 years of age, first prize, a gold medal, offered by County superintendent, Geo. A. Varney, to Alice Brook of Babcock, Wis. Second prize, a beautiful Parker fountain pen, offered by Mrs. W. A. Sexton of Marshfield, to Juliette Alexander, Marshfield, R. 3. Third prize, The Life and Works of Henry W. Longfellow, offered by Prof. M. H. Jackson to Ida Emmulath, Marshfield, R. 3.

Pupils between 12 and 16 years: First prize, same as above, given by Prof. J. A. Hook, Manitowish, won by Eleanor Broy, Milladore. Second prize, beautiful fountain pen, offered by Frank L. Zwack, Jeweler at Marshfield, won by Alvina Emmulath, Marshfield, R. 3. Third prize, same as above, won by Minnie Thole, Sherry.

School Board Conventions. There will be two school board conventions held in Wood County this year. The first will be held at Marshfield on Saturday, Sept. 28th, 1912, and the second will be held at Grand Rapids on date to be announced later. An interesting program will be presented at both conventions and it is hoped that each school board member in Wood County will attend one of these meetings. These conventions have always been well attended in the past and let each individual school board member resolve to do his part to make this year's attendance a record breaker.

A Great Record. Neillville Times.—Wheeler Farm, who carries the mail on route 3 out of this city, is the owner of a horse whose record as a traveler is nothing short of marvelous and one which very few horses have duplicated. Wheeler has been carrying the mail since Feb. 2, 1908, and allowing for vacations and substitutions, has used this one horse alone during all this time. Figuring that the horse has traveled the road for nine years and the route at 20 miles in length, the animal has stepped off 98,200 miles in his work on the mail route. He is 15 years old now and seems to still have quite a few miles left in him, but it is probable that he will not be asked to travel the daily 20 mile trip many more times.

Waldo-Manske. August Waldo of Edgerton and Miss Tillie Manske were married on Wednesday, Sept. 11th, at 2:30 o'clock at the German Lutheran church, east side by Rev. Pantz. They were attended by George Halsey and Anna Manske, sister of the bride. After the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents, to a number of intimate friends and relatives. They departed on Monday for Edgerton where they will go to housekeeping at once. Mr. Waldo holding a responsible position with a lumber company in that city. The Tribune unites with numerous friends in extending congratulations.

The Social Democratic Campaign Opens. The Socialists are beginning to get busy.

R. O. McCaleb, candidate for the assembly in LaCrosse County, is doing Wood County this week and will speak in Grand Rapids, this Wednesday. His subject will be The Business of the People and the place of meeting over Johnson & Hill Co.'s old dry goods store.

Carl D. Thompson, candidate for governor, will also speak in the same place Friday evening. Subject, The Fulfillment of Democracy.

All are cordially invited to be present. Admission free.

O'Day Farm Sold. Louis Gross last week sold the Bat O'Day farm in the town of Grand Rapids, consisting of 202 acres to Mr. Wink of the southern part of the state. Consideration $10,000 including crops.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Day have not decided on what they will do but will probably move to town to live.

Vote in Clark County. The official canvass in Clark County shows that B. H. Goggins received 278 votes for state senator on the democratic ticket.

On the Republican ticket R. W. Monk received 1363, and Geo. F. Hambrecht 680.

The Corrector of Destinies

Being Tales of Randolph Mason as Related by His Private Secretary, Courtland Parks

The District Attorney

By Melville Davisson Post

Copyright by Edward J. Cloude

One of the most disastrous bank failures in the history of the middle west was that of the Patton National Bank of St. Louis. It took down with it almost every one of its correspondents—the Exeter Trust company especially, and Blackwell's bank, one of the oldest in the Mississippi valley. Its New York correspondent, the Amsterdam National, sent west a half-million dollars in gold that never returned to its money vaults. The bank was closed by the national bank examiner on a Saturday afternoon, a few minutes before three o'clock.

I was in the Stock Exchange on Wall street the Monday following the liquidation of some St. Louis securities which the Patton National had been instrumental in placing in New York. It was an ugly morning for anything west of the Ohio. I came out of the Stock Exchange at two o'clock disgusted with securities. The actors were the longest-headed financiers after all. The earth alone was secure.

As I went down the steps into the street, an old man came out from one of the exits of the gallery to the exchange and spoke to me. "Is this Mr. Courtland Parks?" he said. "I replied that it was, and hurried to him. He was a tall, thin man, with a very pleasant countenance and was evidently a professional man. He was wearing a blue coat and a white shirt with a high collar. He was looking at me with a keen, penetrating gaze. He was holding a cane in his right hand. He was looking at me with a keen, penetrating gaze. He was holding a cane in his right hand.

I spoke to him then, a bit impatiently. "May I inquire," I said, "what it is that honors me with so close an acquaintance?"

The old man hesitated a little. "I am Jeremiah Patton," he replied, "the president of the Patton National Bank of St. Louis. I want to see Randolph Mason."

I turned squarely upon him, with no effort to conceal my amazement. He was a tall, thin man, with a very pleasant countenance and was evidently a professional man. He was wearing a blue coat and a white shirt with a high collar. He was looking at me with a keen, penetrating gaze. He was holding a cane in his right hand.

I took him with me to Randolph Mason's house. I wished to hear his story, to learn the details of the failure. The newspapers were not a little puzzled over it; the bank had seemed prosperous, without a shadow of doubt. It was a case of a patient brought, as a last resort, to the specialist after the death rattle had started in his throat.

Jeremiah Patton was seventy-five years old. He had made a fortune as a wholesale merchant, and had retired from active business, but one not greatly learned in the law.

The district attorney was a man named Stethelm, elevated to his position as a reward for conspicuous party service in the last national election. He had organized a certain large element of the city, and held until a bargain was struck for this position. The man was ambitious and hungry to be rich. The position of United States district attorney carried with it a general practice of the best value in the Federal courts. This practice Stethelm was anxious to secure. Jeremiah Patton had heard this, and he had organized a certain large element of the city, and held until a bargain was struck for this position.

The old man replied that both the judge and the district attorney were products of a recent political upheaval. He considered the former United States judge, a man in but middle life, had died suddenly the previous September. The present judge, more a politician than lawyer, had yielded an election to the senate in order to obtain this life appointment regarded as a benefit. He had organized a certain large element of the city, and held until a bargain was struck for this position.

to arrange it. The people are mad for a sacrifice. A Jew once got the wrong acquit a bank president under such circumstances. Belmont Lane has brought me up to the door of the penitentiary. The United States court will put me inside and turn the key in the lock."

Randolph Mason paid not the slightest attention to the man's words. He merely repeated the last sentence of his statement.

"When you are acquitted," he said, "you will come at once to me, and I will adjust the remaining features of this problem."

Jeremiah Patton returned to St. Louis on that very evening, and I followed the order of subsequent events in the newspapers of the city. The Federal court was at that time opening its session. An indictment was found. Patton's attorneys demurred to this indictment. This demurrer was overruled. They then demanded an immediate trial, and the court ordered the case to a jury. Two weeks were consumed in the examination of witnesses, new parades were obtained, and almost wholly rejected. It seemed that every man in the city had conceived an opinion about the prisoner. Finally a curious meeting of jurors was secured, and the government began the introduction of its testimony.

Up to this time, Mason had done nothing. Now he sent for Jacob Solmeyer, a lawyer of considerable prominence, and explained to him what he was to do. I know in detail how Solmeyer carried out his instructions: He went at once to St. Louis and called on the district attorney. He explained that certain large operators of Chicago and Kansas City were joining to effect a consolidation of all the big firms in a certain line in the west into one gigantic company with a hundred million dollar capitalization, under the laws of New Jersey; that the matter was still in an early, formative state. The bankers who were to furnish the large sums necessary to purchase such plants as needed, voluntarily came into trust, feared that some unfriendly district attorney might attempt to bring the matter to court, and thereby affect the bonds of this syndicate, which they would hold as their security. If, however, the principal office of the great project could be placed in some large city of the west, where the district attorney of the United States was a person of conservative ideas, they would furnish the money; otherwise they would not. Solmeyer represented these bankers, and this was the problem they had presented to him for solution. He had gone carefully over the entire field, and finally settled upon the district attorney of St. Louis as filling every requirement of his clients. If he could act, Solmeyer would pay him one thousand dollars as a retainer, which when he could come before them and arrange about his annual retainer. The size of this annual retainer Solmeyer hesitated to suggest, but intimated something in the neighborhood of twenty thousand dollars.

The district attorney glowed with joy and increased importance, but the five thousand dollars in his pocket, and Jacob Solmeyer returned to his office in New York.

The trial of Jeremiah Patton continued. All the affairs of the bank were gone into. Masses of documentary evidence were introduced. The district attorney was determined to make his reputation on this case. He burned with dramatic pose every place he stood, and he could lay his hands on red ink that he could lay his hands on. The courtroom swarmed with reporters. The evidence was printed in detail in all the great dailies. Patton was looked upon as an intolerable scoundrel who had wrecked the bank of which he was president, and he was looked upon as a scoundrel who had burned with dramatic pose every place he stood, and he could lay his hands on red ink that he could lay his hands on.

On a Saturday afternoon, the district attorney closed for the government and rested his case. On the following Sunday Jacob Solmeyer telegraphed the district attorney that there would be a meeting of the bankers on Tuesday evening, and to come at once to New York. Stethelm called on Tuesday morning by long-distance telephone, explained his situation in regard to the Patton trial, and asked if the meeting could not be postponed. Solmeyer answered that a postponed meeting was impossible, that the bankers of the great banking houses in Europe and America could not wait any man's convenience; that the district attorney must attend the meeting, or return the retainer paid to him and abandon the scheme.

Uncertain what course to follow, the district attorney took counsel with his wife. She advised him to get rich baby bumps his head or stubs his toe or mashes his bruise and it will get better. Having been brought up on such nonsensical notions and believing in them still to a certain extent, there is no denying that in treating the new-style baby the old doctor is not a great success."

Helping Women to Be Farmers. How important women are to the farm, and how successful women can be as farmers is being demonstrated on all sides in these progressive days. Probably no back-to-the-farm movement has had more success than that fostered by the government department of agriculture as canning and poultry clubs in southern farming districts. The government is glad to help every girl on a farm who wants to earn a little money. The government enters into vigorous aid in order to help overcome difficulties. In the clubs in South Carolina, which are tomato clubs, they made a splendid financial success and are rapidly becoming rivals of the boys' corn clubs.

The women of the country seem to be coming to realize that there is gold buried in the smallest patch of ground.

His Good Name. William Dean Howells, the famous novelist, enjoys the public confidence in an unusual degree. It was doubtless on this account that a New York promoter recently offered Mr. Howells the presidency of a new mining company at a salary of $25,000 a year.

But, sir," Mr. Howells protested, "I know nothing about mining or finance."

"Oh, that makes no difference," the promoter replied. "We won't expect you to know any work. We only want you to use your name."

But Mr. Howells shook his head. "No," he said, "I must decline. If my name is so well worth using, it must be equally well worth protecting."—New York Tribune Solmeyer gave the man an additional one thousand dollars, and he returned to St. Louis.

On Thursday morning Jacob Solmeyer reported to Randolph Mason, and told of the transaction in detail. He was puzzled to know the object. But he was a man of discretion, aware of the value of silence and the folly of any query put to Randolph Mason. His theory was that Mason wished to make a case against the district attorney looking to his removal, and in test of this theory he ventured to present to him a sworn stenographic report of the district attorney's speech to the "bankers," including his offer of protection against the Interstate Commerce Act.

Randolph Mason tossed the papers into the grate when Solmeyer had finished, concluded the conference, and dismissed him.

In the hall, the old German blinked behind his thick glasses. "Meln Gott! Mr. Parks," he said, "what does Randolph Mason mean? He pay six thousand dollars to get the district attorney on record, den he burns der record?"

"Solmeyer," I replied, "I do not know who was the man in the front rank. I do not know what melody he was singing, neither do I know what Randolph Mason means."

The old man shrugged his shoulders, spread out his hands as though before an impenetrable enigma, and went down the steps to his mansion.

And yet I was not in the least puzzled. I thought I saw clearly into the solution of it all. Mason's real end was to get the district attorney on record, den he burns der record. He had planned to lure the district attorney out of St. Louis and thereby cripple the prosecution; but the shrewdness of the man had forestalled him. Mason had warned Patton to oppose a continuance; he evidently counted upon his counsel to resist with such vigor that the court would go on with the trial; he had not dreamed of a mere objection on the record. The plan had gone to pieces. At the next term, Patton would be tried and convicted. A working out of Israel had overthrown Goliath of Gath in his brazen helmet.

I had just placed out and rounded up my theory as the correct solution of this curious, inexplicable side-play, when Randolph Mason came out of his room, walked past me in the hall and started up the stairway. He stopped on the third step and looked down at me.

"Parks," he said, "go out to St. Louis at the next term of the court, and move it to discharge Jeremiah Patton. On your table is a diploma, and the court will regularize it. Then sit down on the stairway, his hand sliding along the mahogany rail.

Thus my theory, like that of Jacob Solmeyer, was snuffed out.

My train to St. Louis was eight hours late because of floods in the Ohio valley. The case of Jeremiah Patton had been called for retrial when I finally reached the United States courtroom. The building was packed with spectators. The district attorney was inside the rail with a bright new rosebud pinned to the lapel of his coat. The prisoner looked tired and very old, a wretched, pitiable figure, seated by the table with his attorneys; the clerk was calling a jury.

I spoke to the elder of the defendants, giving him Randolph Mason's directions, and the reference. He immediately sent a page into the library for a volume, ran his eyes over the syllabus of the case, and at once arose.

"If it please your honor," he said, "I move the court to dismiss the prisoner."

"The judge looked up from his calendar. "Is this a dilatory motion, Mr. Scott?" he said. "If so, it may be overruled."

"This is a motion in the nature of a plea in bar," replied the lawyer.

The judge was not interested. He was becoming familiar with the ceaseless clutching of the criminal lawyers every time they turned to the representation of the government. "Mr. District Attorney," he said, "do you wish to argue this motion?"

an acquittal, precluding a retrial. The evidence against him was introduced; then, upon the motion of the district attorney, without any reason given on the record, and over the protest of the case was continued and the jury discharged. These facts here are in accordance with those in the case cited. The decision of the associate court is not to be disregarded, and the prisoner must be set at liberty."

The judge paused a moment, took up the volume of reports in his hand and looked down at the packed sea of faces. "It would be folly," he said, "for me to do other than sustain this motion. The United States Circuit Court of Appeals would immediately reverse me. The government would be put to the expense of a useless appeal, and I would be subject to censure as an arbitrary public servant, disregarding the doctrine of law established by an associate court. By curious accident, this prisoner steps outside the power of the law through one of the numerous safeguards which our judicial system throws around a citizen charged with a crime. We do not know whether or not Jeremiah Patton is guilty as charged in this indictment, no jury has decided that; we know only that the law directs that he be discharged from custody, and I so order it."

On Monday morning after the acquittal of Jeremiah Patton, Pietro handed me a cablegram from Randolph Mason. I tore it open and went into his office with it. He looked up from the table as I entered. "Parks," he said, "I am ready to adjust the remaining feature of this bank problem."

"Mr. Mason," I answered, "do you know where Jeremiah Patton and Belmont Lane are today?"

"Yes," he said, "Patton arrived in New York last Friday in the custody of the United States marshal at Berlin."

"Mr. Mason," I replied, "for once in your life you are mistaken."

"Mistaken?" he said, "I mistaken?"

"Yes," I said, "you are mistaken. Jeremiah Patton is dead at the moment of pneumonia; I came this morning from his bedside. Belmont Lane shot himself in the entrance of the hotel Gross Herzog in Berlin at seven o'clock Sunday morning, when confronted with the writ of extradition, and I handed him the cablegram."

For the legal principle involved in this story see Ex parte Ulrich, 42 Fed. 587. This case was afterward reversed by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, but not upon the proposition of law here dealt with.

The law as laid down in the case of Ex parte Ulrich, supra, follows the best practice in this country. See Highland v. Commonwealth, 111 Penn. St. 155; Amer. Rep. 236; State v. Calender, 8 Iowa; Wright v. State, 4 Ind. 292; Mitchell v. State, 42 Ohio St. 383.

Musical Swiss Horses. The Swiss horse is a very musical animal—or not, according to the house's ear. Sprightly and obedient, he is a great favorite with the people extremely kind and considerate to their animals. Probably they are not intentionally unkind to their horses in Switzerland, but it seems to me they are a little inconsiderate. Nearly every driver, for some undecipherable reason, carries a fire bucket with him, and in use (I never did it, and I have no idea what it is for) they are carried for, is slung on the shafts immediately under the horse's nose. In the winter such a practice may be grateful and comforting, but in the summer time it seems to me, horse should be able to keep his own nose warm—might even prefer to From the Wide World.

Slaughter of the Gator. Alligator hunting in Colombia is an industry which furnishes the natives with considerable sport. It is carried on along the Magdalena river from December to April, and in July and August. During those months the streams, swamps, and marshes are flooded. The order the main stream, the alligators, which rushed out onto the inundated flats during the previous swelling of the river, crowd back through the connecting branches and channels, where the Indian hunters slaughter them in large numbers, spearing them and hauling them out on the banks, where they are skinned and then beheaded with long-handled axes. Rifles are not used owing to the prohibition of the use of firearms except shotguns. Hundreds of alligators are also left stuck in the deep slime left by the receding waters, over which their short legs will not drag their heavy bodies.

Old Prejudices Die Hard. Ancient prejudices have a certain vitality about them that defies time. There are plenty of Englishmen today who will lose their temper in a discussion on the character of Oliver Cromwell, and now we find a heated debate in the French chamber on the propriety of celebrating the birth anniversary of Jean Jacques Rousseau, who opened his eyes upon the world two hundred years ago. The proposal was hotly opposed by the Monarchist-Catholic minority, numbering 112 votes, who denounced the bestowal of posthumous honors upon the man who was described as the father of anarchy. And yet there is in France of today who would hesitate to subscribe to every article in the Contrat Sociale. Compared with the mildest radical of today, Rousseau would rank almost as a conservative.

Hugo Telescope Dedicated. Pittsburgh, Pa.—A new 30-inch photographic refractor telescope, valued at $150,000, said to be the third largest instrument of its kind in the world, was dedicated at the Allegheny observatory, Riverview park, in the presence of a distinguished party of scientists and visitors.

Woman Organizing Team. Albany, N. Y.—Mrs. Maud Booth of New York, a prison reformer, is organizing a baseball team at the Comstock penitentiary.

Most Farmers Know That. Chaffy Sassenach—"Looks pretty good soil about here; what crops do you grow?" Sandy—"It a depends, sir," Sassenach—"Depends on what?" Sandy—"On the sort of seed they pit in!"—Tit-Bits.

Teeth for Circular Saw. Every other tooth in a new circular saw for cutting tool steel is a trifle longer than its neighbor, the long teeth making the center of the cut and the short ones, which are thick, sawing out the sides.

Boise, Idaho.—Prof. Tanned and toughened work in the Coeur d'Alene forest reservation, eastern Idaho, spelled out stories of the fight against the Youth's Companion. He went out, with two others, on an ornamental commission, to study the forest, and coming back in August, they had met the fire and spent almost a month in fighting their way out of them.

"There are real men among these forest rangers," he went on. "I have heard in a long time the story of Ranger Pulaski. It did not happen in the scene of the reservation where I was, but I can vouch for its truth. I have talked with some of the men who were with him."

"Pulaski had forty men under him, and they had been fighting a big fire for hours. Suddenly the wind rose until it blew a gale. The fire got beyond them, and it became a question of saving the lives of the men. They were many miles from a railroad or a clearing."

"Pulaski remembered that about a mile from where they were working was an abandoned mine shaft. He ran back about forty feet into the hillside. He ordered the men to snatch their blankets from the camp and run for this shaft. Once there they tucked themselves like sardines into the hole. Pulaski placed himself at the opening and stretched a blanket across it."

"In a few minutes the fire overtook them. The blanket at the opening caught and Pulaski jerked it away. Again and again this was done, and when the supply of blankets ran low he held the burning fragments across the mouth of the shaft with his bare hands."

"The sufficing of the men from the heat and smoke was pitiful. They were faintly maddened by it, and some of them made a wild attempt to push their way out of the shaft. For a while Pulaski held them back by sheer physical strength, for he was an unusually strong man. But he knew that he must soon be overpowered."

Superior.—Five hundred Great Northern ore dock workers, who struck, demanding an increase of 25 cents a day, are still out. The company has informed the men that they must report for work or strike-breakers will be imported from Milwaukee and Minneapolis.

Manitowish.—John Warner, a mail-order, thought to be the leader of a gang that assaulted Captain Carlo of the police force when the officers attempted to stop a saloon fight, was sentenced to four months in jail on the charge of carrying concealed weapons.

Racine.—Mrs. Henry Summerton, wife of a former politician, was found dead in bed by her sister. The sister had left the house but a few minutes previously and Mrs. Summerton was apparently in good health.

Oshkosh.—State Game Warden Scholz and Oshkosh fishermen are planning a crusade against the rough fish in the Fox and Wolf rivers and Lake Winnebago. Nets will be used to catch sheepshead, carp, dogfish, lawyers and other rough fish.

Appleton.—The body of Harold Schultz, who was drowned with his mother and neighbor, Mrs. Frank Diener, when their launch was carried over the first dam, was found in the flames of the Interlake Pulp and Paper company's pulp mill, more than a mile from the scene of the accident. The body had to go over the middle dam and pass more than twenty-five flames of other mills, and it took it sixty hours to do so, for thirty minutes before the body was discovered the racks had been cleaned.

Dubuque.—Hand Nuss, who was struck on the head with a large club in the hands of a footpad while he was pushing his popcorn cart home, died from his injuries. While he was passing a tree he was felled by a club in the hands of a footpad. Nuss was felled, but he began to call for help and to fight the robber, who fell on another terrible blow on the head. Passerby frightened the assailant away before he secured any money, of which Nuss had only a small sum.

Grand Rapids.—Mrs. Solomon Morritt of Pittsburg committed suicide at the Commercial hotel by taking a dose of strychnine concealed in a chocolate drop.

Janesville.—A school has been closed for fumigation because of the discovery of infantile paralysis among the students.

Racine.—Fred Jensen, aged sixty-two, who was struck by an automobile driven by Walter Bugbee, Chicago, died as a result of his injuries. John Gratz, aged fifteen, was seriously injured when struck by an automobile driven by a woman. The boy's left leg was broken and internal injuries sustained.

Dodgeville.—An Iowa county association of rural carriers was organized with the following officers: President, W. G. Gals of Mineral Point; vice-president, F. S. Corry of Highland; secretary-treasurer, John Griffiths, Dodgeville.

Kenosha.—The home of Mayor Dan O. Head was converted into a temporary hospital when five of his children were stricken with polio. It is thought that the poisoning came from the use of milk.

Green Bay.—The body of August Netols, nine years old, was recovered after the police had been dragging the river for 24 hours. The boy was found floating in a gasoline barrel. The trip across was made safely, but on the return, when the party had left the west bank for the east bank, the engine stopped not far from the dam. The launch struck the cable and overturned. The men clung to the cable and their efforts for help were heard by people on the shore, and they were rescued from their perilous position.

Because the doctor did not put on his seven-league boots and start the chase he heard there was a sick child in the neighborhood, the woman who had summoned him accused him of inhumanity. But the doctor protested that he was not inhuman.

"protect"
return for sufficient
to overcharge
African consumers on clothing they buy, is the arrest at Lawrence,
William M. Wood, head of the trust.
Wood is charged with placing a fine in the home of his $5,000, and $7 a week for millworkers in an attempt to discredit their cause while they were on a strike last winter as a protest against a reduction of wages.
Mr. Wood's arrest is worthy of the attention of every man, woman and child in the country who wears woolens. Because of the fact that Mr. Wood and his fellow woolen trust magnates contribute heavily to Republican campaign funds, congress has been in the habit of placing the tariff on woolens high enough to keep out all competition, so that the woolen trust could be free to charge any price they desired, up to the limit of the ability of the people to pay. The result is that Americans are paying from thirty to one hundred per cent more for woolen clothing and blankets than the resident of Great Britain pays.
The story of the career of Mr. Wood provides a curious paradox. He is the oppressor of 100,000 miserable New England textile workers; a few years ago he was one of them. In his youth he felt the sting of hunger himself, but now he is pitiless in his thoughts of his employees. He has grown enormously rich, but declares that from $4 to $9 a week is enough for those who labor in his mills.
It is said of many capitalists of industry that they are ignorant of the conditions of the workmen who earn their fortunes for them; that if they knew the distress of their employees they would seek to remedy it. No go with Wood. He knows. Their distress he sees. Their cries he hears.
Wood's father was a Portuguese-Jew emigrant. He labored in a cotton mill and died of tuberculosis, a disease common to cotton and wool spinners. The father's name is believed to have been Alphonse LeHar of Lo-Vair.
Then the woolen mill employees,
which are composed of 42 different nationalities, most of whom cannot speak in English, went on a strike;
the fathers and mothers decided to send their babies and little children away to friends in other cities in order that they might not suffer from hunger during the strike. Mrs. Wood's agents beat from their mothers arms when the children were about to be placed on trains. Thus did
Mr. Wood "protect" his employees.
Are the American people willing to continue to contribute to Mr.
Wood by paying more for shoddy than good woolen clothing sold in England? Or do they want the tariff on woolens reduced? There is only one day every two years when the consumers have an opportunity to express themselves on this subject.
That day comes on November 5.

Passing of Buffalo Robes
The buffalo robe, which a generation ago was to be found in nearly every farmhouse, is passing from the general farmer and stock-raiser and gone into the hands of the beef trust.
Such a diabolical trade pact for the benefit of the big trust and the big trusts was never proposed in a civilized country peopled with intelligent people, before in the history of the world. Taft proposed, and as far as this country was concerned, failed to carry it through a special interest congress and it would have become a law
if it had not been for the fact that the Canadian people had become tired of the Canadian government. You farmers are told that this treaty is dead. To make sure it will stay dead, the man who foisted it upon this country should be buried in political oblivion, and the for will never again be proposed in this country, the home of the free and the home of the brave, again.
The transference of the proposition to impoverish the American farmers ought to make any honest man's blood boil with righteous indignation against the man that was responsible for its introduction. Farmers and laboring men of Lincoln county, show your votes next November that you honor your vocation, and condemn with your votes your enemy, William Howard Taft.

"Has he Risen"
The Milwaukee Leader, the Socialist organ, doesn't as a rule say much with which we can agree; but it published an editorial the other day under the caption, "Has he risen?" that strikes us as being about right. The article refers to a farmer, who has become a candidate for the legislature. The farmer had at one time been an office boy for the well known F. H. Eberhardt Wilder, for many years editor of the Madison State Journal, and some paper in commenting on it spoke of this boy's rise in the world. The Leader and the editorial in scientific agriculture speak of the rise and goes on as follows:
"We do hold, however, that no man who is a capable farmer rises in any way by becoming a legislator for the legislature of Wisconsin. What is more honorable than in rendering the service to one's fellows that is rendered by the farmer?
Consequently, the shallowness of our democracy is revealed by the standards of success which we have erected in response to our profit-making civilization.
We have a great deal more respect for William D. Hoard in the service that he rendered to the public as the editor of Hoard's Dairyman and a leader in scientific agriculture than we possibly could have had for him
when he was governor of Wisconsin and, wholly oblivious of the economic forces which were generating, as they are now, to revolutionize society, was battling with evils that were as imaginary as the knights that Don Quixote faced in mortal combat when he charged upon the windmills of Spain.
Men may render splendid service to society in any useful walk of life, but no man "rises" when he is sent to congress or elected to the legislature, and it is the office that men hold which determines their fitness or the value of their public services.
The citizen who collects your garbage in the early hours of morning, performing a far better service than is performed by men who, holding high office in the service of the public, employ for private advantage and the people's betrayal. If the garbage man were to do his work as fully as our legislators have done their work, our legislators would be plague spots for the fattening of the swine.
To send a good garbage collector to the city council might well prove a public calamity and the degradation of a useful citizen."—Antigo Journal.

wife has been in foreign lands for several months, the Dr. being attached to the United States foreign medical corps arrived in Nekoosa Friday for a short visit with his par-

his other Nekoosa friends in wishing him good health, happiness and prosperity.

Mrs. Bertha Arnold of the town of daughter, Mrs. John Ziehr, at Vesper last Thursday. She is an old resident of the town of Hansen and was the mother of Mrs. John Ziehr, Mrs.

Chas. Bailing, and Mrs. Fred Keip, the former of the town of Hansen and the last named of Columbia county,
but a former resident to the east of us.
Fred Hodgson, west of the city, disposed of a herd of 23 of his Hereford cattle into the city last week for disposition to a stock buyer. It was a fine bunch of stock, raised exclusivly for beef by Mr. Hodgson, the kind of beef cattle that pay a dividend.
There is little cry of stock and a small expenditure for wintering over connected with this kind of stock raising.
Ernest Brown has made purchase of

will conduct the same in the future.
He will retire from management of the farm and intends to move over to the Sator store. The stable will be at the Brown Hotel stand.
Merchant S. N. Bann has again dipped into the land business, having bought an eighty of Frank Hells near the farm of John Karz. Mr.
Bann says he has been in the store and creamery business so long that it seems good to getting a batch of land on hand so that he can make his house living.
Carl Karts and wife of Moorehead,
Minn., visited with relatives here
the latter part of last and the fore part of this week. They had been in the southern part of the state and dropped off on their way back.
SOUTH ARPIN
Mission services will be held for the Lutheran churches of Arpin, Sherry and Vesper. The services will be held in Gust Gronemeyer's woods, both in the forenoon and afternoon. There will be two ministers who will deliver the sermons.
Everybody is invited.
Miss Sophie Hohn who is attending the Training school at Grand Rapids, spent Saturday and Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hohn.
Aug. Kohls is going to drill again Tuesday after being laid up a couple of weeks with a crushed arm. Chas.
Smith will work for him again.
Miss Flora Rohmsa spent Sunday at the Hohn home.
Miss Elvina Wintlin left on Sunday
to join her mother at the cranberry marsh.
Wm. Meacham and Ole Peterson spent Sunday at the cranberry marsh.
Chas. Tomfohrde is busy putting the roof on his large basement barn.

REMINGTON
A disastrous fire occurred at Babcock on Saturday night about 9 o'clock, destroying David Levin's store, warehouse, and barn; a part of the dry goods in his store being saved. It is not known just where the fire originated, but some think it started in Mr. Levin's barn. The people of Babcock, both men and women, helped to carry a lot of Mr.
Levin's goods outside, thereby his loss is not so heavy. Mrs. Collen's house at the rear end of the barn had the heroic efforts of the people it was saved. It is not known if Mr. Levin will rebuild again. He kept an up-to-date store for a small village like Babcock.
Gas Sanger and a number of his friends from Nekoosa, were down here hunting chickens last week, they being guests at the Sanger home.
B. Johnson of Exum, Ill. visited at the E. Daniels home the fore part of last week.
Mr. Farrington of Columbus, bought a lot of cattle around here and shipped them to Chicago last week.
Mrs. Annie Sanger and children of Nekoosa are visiting at the Sanger home this week.
Misses Meata Haas and Elma Sanger
of Grand Rapids were guests at the Haas home from Saturday until Monday.
Frederick Rutz was a Pittsville
visitor Thursday.
John Henry of Tomah, was a guest at the home of O. S. Lowe last week.
Relatives from Milwaukee visited
Mrs. Jos Karwoski.
Mr. Albrecht of New Lisbon, visited at the Sanger home several days last week.
Miss Agnes Keenan visited at her home in Dexterville from Friday until Sunday.

A black and white line drawing of a man in a suit and hat, standing next to a wooden building. The man is looking towards the building. The building has a gabled roof and a small porch. There are some trees and a fence in the background. The drawing is simple and stylized.

An Awful Waste of Money

It is certainly scandalous to see the way some of you farmers leave expensive machinery, tools and vehicles standing around in fields and barnyards. You certainly must know that it is "an awful waste of money," because rot and rust will put any machine on the "blink" a good deal quicker than the wear and tear of actual use.

Come now! What's the use of waiting any longer? You need more sheds. You know you need them. And you know the cost of lumber to build them is nothing, compared with the havoc wrought with your machinery without them.

Let us tell you the cost of the material.

The city mail carriers went to Wausau on Sunday and played the mail carriers up there a game of baseball and the game went to the local team by a score of 10 to 6. The boys report that they were treated very much, and had a good time all around.

Farmers from this locality, both east and west of the river, report that many of the potatoes have rotted this fall, where the land was so low as to hold the water after the heavy rains. It is this will reduce the crop somewhat in this section, still there are indications of a fair production. Buyers have been paying from 30 to 35 cents a bushel, which is somewhat lower than they have been for several seasons, and there is no doubt but what the consumer pays enough for them, even at this rate.

Advance Showing of Ladies' Furs, Millinery

The women of Grand Rapids and vicinity are cordially invited to see and admire the new fall display of Ladies' Misses' and Children's Fall Coats.

Here you will find all the stylish models that will be worn this fall and winter. We are sure that if you will give us a look, you will find just the model you want, just the color, weave and pattern that suits you; and also just your size, whatever your size is. The price we are positive will suit you. You young women of highly critical taste in clothes must not fail to see our showing of extremely smart styles at moderate prices.

Prices range from $5.00 to $29.00

First Showing of Ladies' Furs

We are now prepared to show you the largest and best line of furs that was ever shown in this city. We can show you the best styles in scarfs and muffs made up in Hudson seal, Beaver, Mink, Fox, Lynx, Raccoon, Opossum, Wolf, Martin, Wallaby, Coney etc. Prices range from $1.00 to $79.00.

MILLINERY SHOWING

We bid you a cordial welcome to our advance showing of Millinery. The magnificent array of new fall Millinery and at such low prices would attract wide attention even in the very largest cities.

A prominent feature of the Fall Millinery styles is the free use of velvet. The trimming effect that stands out so boldly as the reigning success is Ostrich feathers. Particularly Ostrich feathers. In addition to Ostrich feathers, wings, moline, ribbons, moires and taffeta enter largely into the trimming idea. All in all, our Fall Millinery showing embraces a complete showing of the very smartest, most becoming and most desirable styles designed for the new season - and at the very lowest prices.

Prices range from $1.50 to $10.00

SWEATERS

We have a complete line of Ladies', Misses' and Children's sweaters in all the new styles, shades and prices are lower than the lowest.

Prices range from 98c to $4.98

BLANKETS

Be sure and look over our line of Bed Blankets before you purchase elsewhere, we can save you money on every pair. We have a complete line at the very lowest prices.

Prices range from 39c to $2.20
